THE Palm Springs Black Chamber of Commerce SCHOLARSHIP LUNCHEON WAS A SUCCESS!

We know that with rising education costs, students will need help more than ever before in 2017! With that in mind, we have established the Palm Springs Black Chamber of Commerce "Focus on Business" Scholarship. This Scholarship is designed to fulfill a fundamental goal of the Chamber by providing financial assistance to minority students pursuing a career in business. OUR RECIPIENT was Domanick Murray is a 2017 graduate of Palm Springs High School. Domanick is an outstanding student athlete who is respected by school staff and his peers.

His business teacher stated, "This young man is a class act, who has set his priorities and has successfully competed in business competitions from coast to coast. He is deserving of any recognition and scholarships for which he may be considered. I highly recommend him as a scholar, an athlete and a person." Domanick will enter the University of Redlands this fall and pursue a degree in Business. Congratulations Domanick! We wish you success now and in the future!

U.S. Senator Kamala D. Harris
Grand Marshal of
33rd Annual KINGDOM DAY PARADE
Monday, January 15, 2018 ~ Los Angeles, CA

Los Angeles, CA — Adrian Dove, President and CEO, Kingdom Day Parade announced that California U.S. Senator Kamala D. Harris is the Grand Marshal for the 2018 Annual Kingdom Day Parade. ABC-7 will again broadcast the entire 2 Hour 33rd Kingdom Day Parade Live on Monday, January 15, 2018 from 11:00 AM to 1:00 PM.

The 2.5 Mile parade route begins @ 10 AM on Martin Luther King Jr. Blvd & Western Avenue, traveling west to Crenshaw, then South on Crenshaw, and ending at Leimert Park and Vernon.

The Kingdom Day Parade honors the life and legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and has grown from its humble beginnings into the largest and longest running Martin Luther King, Jr. Annual Birthday Celebration in the nation! This year, 2018 would have been Dr. King's 89th birthday and is also the 50th Anniversary of his untimely Homegoing. Although he never reached the age of 40, his legacy will live forever. This year's theme, borrowed from First Lady Michelle Obama is: "When They Go Low, We Go High".

TAX SEASON IS RIGHT AROUND THE CORNER

Think About Making A Donation To The Black Business Association

The Black Business Association, Los Angeles headquartered in Los Angeles, the oldest, active, ethnic business organizations in the State of California has been in the business of helping people for over forty years. We are a 501c3 non-political, charitable organization whose mission it is to provide economic empowerment and independence to African-American owned businesses and to be the voice of advocacy on behalf of those businesses.

As we enjoy this season of giving let's not forget that right around the corner lurks the taxman for his time of taking. At the top end of earnings, taxpayers can be liable for a combined tax rate as high as 51.9%.

Your generous donation will be acknowledged with a letter expressing our heartfelt thanks and the knowledge that you have made a difference in the lives of many of your Angelino neighbors.

Kenneth I. Chenault recently announced that he is retiring from American Express in February 2018 after serving as the company's chief executive for the past 16 years. His departure reduces the ranks of black CEOs leading the largest publicly traded corporations, including Kenneth Frazier of Merck & Co.; Roger Ferguson of TIAA; Arnold Donald of Carnival Corp.; and Marvin Ellison of JCPenney.

When BLACK ENTERPRISE released its list of the 100 Most Powerful Executives in Corporate America in 2012, there were eight black CEOs of major publicly traded corporations. Over the last several years, there have been significant departures such as Ursula Burns stepping down from the helm of Xerox after the company completed its restructuring earlier this year. Burns was the first African American woman to be appointed as CEO of one of the nation's 500 largest corporations.

Ronald C. Parker, the president and CEO of The Executive Leadership Council (ELC), which champions the development of black executives around the world, says Chenault's retirement is bittersweet. "While we are excited about his success, we are also alarmed and disappointed that we have lost another iconic leader of a Fortune 500 company who is a black CEO," he told BLACK ENTERPRISE.

In fact, black CEOs at the largest publicly traded companies have diminished because African Americans are not being identified and groomed for these positions. "We have to get boards of directors and those who are responsible for succession planning of CEOs much more intentional in identifying talented individuals early on in their executive leadership career trajectory and getting them in position to be considered for the role of chairman and CEO of Fortune 500 companies," says Parker. He added that the problem stems from the lack of diversity in boardrooms at Fortune 500 companies, where African American men hold just 5.6% of board seats and only 2.2% of seats are held by black women, according to the ELC. "It's the responsibilities of the board of directors, which we know is not reflective of the population that companies serve. Almost 80% of boards are run by white males," says Parker. As a result, board directors are selecting leaders whom they look like and identify with.

Nonetheless, Parker praised Chenault for his contributions to the ELC and AmEx, where he worked for a total of 37 years. "We are so very proud of the legacy of leadership that Ken has demonstrated over his illustrious career," Parker said in a press release. "He guided the company through the difficult days of 9-11 as the new CEO of American Express, and once again during one of the most challenging global economic recessions of our time. Ken has always been a true model of courageous leadership, operating with the utmost integrity and distinction as demonstrated by his co-chairing and championing the fundraising efforts for the National Museum of African American History and Culture in Washington, D.C., and playing a vital role in the creation of the ELC's CEO Academy and board diversity initiatives." Chenault is slated to stay at Amex until Feb. 1. The 66-year-old corporate leader will be succeeded by Steve Squeri, 58, the current vice chairman of the company.

Mission

The Southern California Black Chamber of Commerce (SCBCC) is a nonprofit 501(c)(6) business organization dedicated to improving the economic environment for the minority business community, and fostering business development and prosperity. The SCBCC focuses its efforts on four major areas:

- ☐ Economic Development
- ☐ Community Development
- ☐ Public Policy and
- ☐ Membership Services

The SCBCC invests financial and other resources to implement relevant programs for members and which affect the orderly growth and development of the community. It is the catalytic agency that brings together all of the forces, public and private, through which common goals can be resolved. The fundamental mission of the SCBCC is to create and promote a climate where minority businesses can operate in a productive and profitable manner. The SCBCC has served member businesses since 1993, and their enabling them to prosper through mutual cooperation and support.

Financial Strength and Stability

As in any business a sound financial base is essential for a chamber of commerce to perform its mission. A portion of the SCBCC's finances are received on a voluntary basis from chamber membership, through an annual dues investment. The amount a member pays to the chamber may be based on a fee formula, business classification, special negotiation or averaging. Increasingly over the last 10 years, dues make up a smaller percentage of chamber budgets, with the average being about 50 percent. The remaining portion of the budget is dependent upon income received through the sales of publications, charges for services, special projects and foundations. A well developed product and services program is the current trend for successful chambers of today.

Structure

The SCBCC is governed by Officers and a Board of Directors. The President of the Board appoints Committee Chairs to meet the needs of the Chamber. The staff is headed by the Executive Director.

Programs

The SCBCC's primary programs are created to provide the maximum benefit to business owners and professionals in Southern California. These programs include:

- ☐ Contacts to Contracts – The SCBCC actively engages in facilitating government and corporate contracts for minority businesses.
- Business Development and Training – Minority business owners, operators and their staff are provided a range of workshops, one-on-one training, peer mentoring, resources and referrals.
- ☐ (Networking and Professional Development – The SCBCC provides local and regional networking for all who wish to participate. Monthly mixers, local business conferences, seminars and workshops are provided for the purpose of unifying and connecting minority businesses with the resources, contacts and training needed to grow their businesses.

CBC, Judiciary Democrats Introduce Resolution to Censure Trump for Racist “Shithole” Comments

Currently, the Resolution has Nearly 150 Co-Sponsors

WASHINGTON – Today, the Congressional Black Caucus (CBC) and the House Judiciary Committee – led by CBC Chairman Cedric L. Richmond (D-LA-02) and Ranking Member Jerrold Nadler (D-NY-10) respectively – introduced a resolution to censure President Trump for the racist “shithole” comments he made about Haiti and African countries during a bipartisan January 11, 2018, meeting on American immigration policy. The resolution currently has nearly 150 Democratic co-sponsors.

Specifically, the resolution censures President Trump for the following:

- Questioning whether Haitians needed to be included in the compromise. “Haitians, why do we need more Haitians? Take them out,” President Trump said.
- Referring to African countries as “shitholes” or “shithouses;” and

Suggesting that instead of accepting immigrants from predominately black Haiti and African countries, the United States should instead allow more immigration from predominately white countries like Norway.

Joint Statement from CBC Chairman Richmond and House Judiciary Committee Ranking Member Nadler:

“We were deeply disturbed and offended by President Trump’s remarks regarding Haiti and African countries. The countries he called ‘shitholes’ produce immigrants that are remarkable and make significant contributions to our country. A high percentage of those immigrants have college degrees and when they get here they create businesses and jobs.

“These remarks have compelled us to prepare a resolution of censure with our colleagues, to condemn President Trump for his racist statements. This censure resolution is important because America is a beacon of hope. We have to show the world that this president does not represent the real feelings of most of the American people which is part of the reason why he lost the popular vote.

“The President’s bigoted fearmongering is not acceptable and his remarks completely warrant total condemnation and censure from Congress. American immigration policy cannot and should not be guided in any way, shape or form by racism.

“We will be asking Republican Leadership to bring our resolution of censure up for swift consideration and approval. Congress must speak with one voice in condemning these offensive and anti-American remarks. There is no excuse for it.”

In addition to Chairman Richmond and Ranking Member Nadler, co-sponsors include House Democratic Leader Nancy Pelosi, Democratic Whip Steny Hoyer, Assistant Democratic Leader James E. Clyburn, House Democratic Chairman Joe Crowley, and Congresswoman Zoe Lofgren, Ranking Member of the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Immigration and Border Security.
